Progress.

Good Missourians are getting tired of the saloon. They are finding out that it makes men poor, makes them quarrelsome, makes them reckless, makes them corrupt, makes them like bad things instead of good things; that it increases vice and crime, insanity and disease, immorality and lawlessness; that it hurts business, that it increases instead of decreases taxes; that no good things come out of it—and that they can get on better without it than with it.

Sixty-four counties of the State are Dry.

Nineteen others have no saloons outside of the one big town, having more than 2,500 inhabitants and would be all dry if they had a county unit local option law. Twenty-two counties have voted on the local option question in the last twenty months—most of them the second time—and all went dry but Morgan county.

Gentry increases its Dry majority 930 to 1087.

Henry increases its Dry majority from 780 to 1135.

Madison increases its Dry majority from 5 to 440.

Pulaski increases its Dry majority from 320 to 1034.

Nodaway increases its Dry majority from 633 to 1806.

Andrew changed a wet majority of 69 to a Dry majority of 632.

Lewis changed a wet majority of 71 to a Dry majority of 593.

Clark changed a wet majority of 156 to a Dry majority of 375.

Nine cities, Lamar, Aurora, Marshall, Columbia, Richmond, Kirksville, Higginsville, Slater, Cameron, after being Dry four years, all voted to stay so another four years.

Missourians Are Not Fools.

They would not vote this way if they didn't find it to their advantage. But having learned by experience that business is better, that men are more temperate, industrious, economical, that boys are not so easily led into temptation and hence grow up into better citizens where there are no saloons—they are saying by increasing majorities.

"We Will Have No SALOON In Our County."—Adv.

Not In Vain.

Not being able to secure enough fresh water for a water works system, work on the deep well was abandoned at a depth of 2150 feet. The casing nearly all pulled except a 1000 feet in the 6-inch casing which will remain in order that the people may be able to secure the excellent mineral water which comes into the well at a depth of 1500 feet and comes within 80 feet of the top of the well. We believe that the people will greatly enjoy this water.

Yates.

Nellie Dee Yates, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Leo Yates, was born December 26, 1909, and died Feb. 15 1913, at Monroe City.

Little Nellie had not been feeling well for a few days but her parents thought she was suffering with croup when she was in part suffering with diphtheria. She seemed well on Saturday morning and nobody apprehended any danger. Toward evening she became worse and the physician was called and all that could be done was done, but the end came, she bravely fighting for life, early Sunday morning. The little body was laid to rest in St. Jude's cemetery, the services being conducted at the graveside by Rev. W. G. Alcorn.

Little Nellie is:
"Safe in the arms of Jesus,
Safe on His gentle breast,
There by His love o'er shadowed,
Sweetly my soul shall rest,
Hark 'tis the voice of Angels,
Borne in song to me,
Over the fields of glory,
Over the the Jasper sea."

Jack Johnson Is Barred.

Ottawa, Ontario, Feb. 22.—By the terms of a general order issued by the Canadian government to the immigration inspectors at all border ports of the dominion, Jack Johnson, the pugilist, has been barred from admittance into Canada. The official reason for this action is that Johnson, who is now said to be ill of pneumonia in his home in Chicago, has been designated as an "undesirable." Under the Canadian immigration law, Johnson is debarred from entry by reason of "moral turpitude."

Don't be deceived by fake advertising or catalogue houses, but come to me for anything in the Hardware, Buggy or Implement line and I will show you who gets the big slice out of the watermelon I will give you better values for the same money and I will prove it if you will let me.

Cusack.

Mrs. Mary Cusack, of Indian Creek, Mo., died in St. Mary's Hospital at 2 a. m. last Wednesday, where she had been in the care of the good sisters during the past four months. She suffered a paralytic stroke several months ago and during her illness she evinced the patience of a saint and the heroism of a martyr. She had the supreme happiness to receive the last Sacraments from the hands of her worthy son, Rev. T. E. Cusack, pastor of Morrisonville. He was by her side constantly during her last days on earth; he closed her eyes in death and fortified her pure soul with his blessing as it sprang from the embrace of the body and winged its flight to heaven. She was a native of Ireland and came to America with her parents who lie buried in St. Peter's cemetery. After her marriage to Patrick Cusack in 1870 they settled on a farm in Missouri until the death of her husband in 1876. Left alone with four small children she sacrificed herself in a most heroic manner in order that they might receive a genuine Christian education—an education that would fit them for the battle of life. There were three boys and one girl—the boys developed into men of whom any mother might well be proud: Rev. T. E. Cusack, of Morrisonville; James P., of Indian Creek, and John B., of Denver, Colorado. The girl was always the mother's joy and she became the saintly Sister Fidelis among the Sisters of St. Joseph. She died in 1904. Mrs. Cusack also leaves a sister, Mrs. Hildebrand, and two brothers, John and Bernard Masterson.

The funeral took place Friday morning from the home of Mrs. Hildebrand, 516 Oak street, at 10 a. m. and from St. Peter's Church at 10:30. Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery.

The Solemn Funeral Mass was sung by her son, Rev. Father Cusack, assisted by Rev. J. J. Corcoran, Stonington, Ill., deacon, and Rev. M. A. Tarrent, of the Alton Cathedral, sub-deacon. Rev. M. J. Foley was master of ceremonies. An eloquent and fitting tribute was paid to the life and character of the deceased woman by Rev. D. Ryan, of Auburn, Ill. All the Quincy clergy were present in the Sanctuary, as well as many out of town priests, including Rev. Finney, of Springfield, Ill.; Father D. J. Ryan, of Auburn, Ill.; Father P. F. Cooney, of Indian Creek, Mo.; Father D. Mulcahey, of Canton, Mo.; Father Sullivan, of Hannibal; Father M. A. Tarrent and Father F. Kehoe, of Alton, Ill., and Father Curran, Father Kunsch, Father Luney, O. F. M., and Father Dagenhardt, of Quincy; and Father Marion, of Brighton, Illinois; Father Ryan, of Monroe.

During the service music was furnished by the St. Peter's choir. The pall bearers were Edward Dowd, Robert Bumster, Charles Hildebrand, John Ernst, Phil O'Brien and Leo Hildebrand. Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery.

The casket was covered with beautiful floral offerings from friends, among them was a bouquet of 20 lilies from the parishioners of Rev. E. T. Cusack's parish.—Western Catholic, Quincy, Ill.
